New to Our Website

Would you like to know the titles of some of the books the library owns on a specific topic without coming into the library? An easy way to do this is to go to the newsletter page of the library's website at <www.starklawlibrary.org/newsletter>. There, at the bottom of the page are bibliographies that cover topics such as "Child Law Issues," "Jury Instruction Materials," and "Zoning and Land Use Resources." These bibliographies list web sites as well as books and periodicals that the library owns. Additional subject bibliographies will be added as time permits. If you would like to suggest a topic for a future bibliography, please email: director@starklawlibrary.org.

Don't Miss These Services!

Good Deal From Lawyers Weekly USA

Lawyers Weekly introduces an effective and inexpensive way to keep your name in front of your best prospects all year long...Lawyers Weekly Client Newsletters.

"Now, for the cost of just a few billable hours a year, we'll take all the worry off your hands. You'll get a handsome, personalized Client Newsletter four times a year, with your name and address appearing prominently at the top...exactly as if you produced it yourself.

All the material will be professionally written by Lawyers Weekly's highly trained staff, and will be packed with truly helpful information for clients. And the material will be written in language clients can easily understand." ¹

If the rest are like their example at: <http://www.lawyersweeklyusa.com/pdf/general/newslettersample.pdf>, it's worth the money, particularly if you are short on staff.

If you enjoy desktop publishing, or want more than four newsletters a year, ABA has an interesting discussion in their Law Practice Management article, "The Art of Successful Law Firm Newsletters," by Robert B. Fleming located on the web at: http://www.abanet.org/lpm/magarticle2002_v28n4_p42.shtml or at the library on page 42 of their May/June issue.

Fleming describes how his law firm's newsletter has developed, including its benefits and drawbacks.

Top Five Things You Must Realize When Searching

5. Search engines have to make money
4. Sites go down
3. Your web browser will crash

Good News, Bad News: Here Comes .pro

"Lawyers, physicians and accountants soon will be able to register Web addresses in a worldwide Internet domain reserved exclusively for certified professionals, but they will have to pay nearly 10 times the cost of ordinary domain names."

"RegistryPro will sell .pro addresses only to Internet users who can prove that they are certified physicians, lawyers or accountants."³

Interesting and Informative Websites

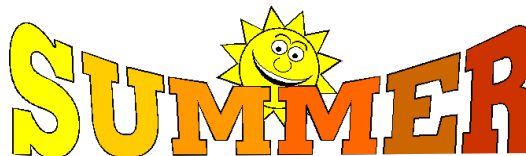

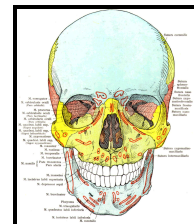

Labor Research Portal

The information here will be useful for anyone involved in labor relations. There are some brief annotations, while other links are lists of good quality links. Berkeley's Institute of Industrial Relations Library offers this useful metasite at: <http://iir.berkeley.edu/library/laborportal.html>.⁴

The Securities Lawyer's Deskbook includes the Securities Act of 1933, Securities Exchange Act of 1934, Investment Company Act of 1940, the rules and regulations promulgated under these acts, and the principal Securities and Exchange Commission forms related to those laws and regulations. The Center for Corporate Law at the University of Cincinnati College of Law provides this resource at: <http://www.law.uc.edu/CCL>.

Visible Human Server

"This Web site allows users to view three dimensional models of human anatomy. A free registration allows users to log on and fully access the site, but there are some sample demonstrations available without registration. When visiting the site, you can view, rotate, and extract cross sections from the anatomical models, or build your own anatomic model by choosing the structures of interest. The site works best with Internet Explorer 5 and the latest version of Microsoft Java VM. The site provides how-to files that are extremely helpful for new users."⁵ If you need an anatomical diagram for a presentation this is THE site! The Swiss Federal Institute of Technology provides this site at: <http://visiblehuman.epfl.ch/>.
